Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing this letter at the request of Yu Miao, who has worked together with me at Research Centre for Eco-environmental Science. And I would like to be the referral for Miao.

Miao is a PhD student major in environmental science and always show his interests in cross-discipline studies such as programming and statistics. We have worked together for single-nano particle research and Miao just wrote a web application (<https://yufree.shinyapps.io/spicpmsshiny>) for this project, which made our study much easier. I found Miao could quickly get into a new area with a strong background of data science and solve certain scientific problems.

We often had lunch together and talked about the most recently papers both in analytical chemistry and environmental science. Miao showed insights in many different topics and I thought he is good at logical thinking and structure comprehending. Also he is skilled at performing many advanced analytical instruments such as GC-MS/MS and LS-MS/MS. Besides, he is easy-going and always like to help others.

Miao, I believe, will become a great asset in your lab and I recommended him without hesitation. Just contact me if you need more information.

Sincerely,

Chengbin Zheng
